Vocational Training in Fashion Design — Become a Fashion Designer in Zurich

Swiss Fashion Academy is a professional fashion school based in Zurich that offers a wide range of fashion courses, with the option of taking classes in German, English, Portuguese, and Spanish.

Our school offers training in fashion design, which is geared more toward those who want to learn the entire process of developing a project to create a collection, as well as courses in patternmaking, sewing, and pattern-making, which are intended for those who want to gain experience in clothing production in general, as well as a course in men's Fashion Designer, for those who are involved in the field of Tailoring want to specialize in, all the way up to Fashion Illustration, for design enthusiasts, as well as training to become a personal stylist—a great option for both professionals and non-professionals in the fashion industry who want to expand and develop their knowledge of personal image and makeup artistry.

All of our training courses are taught in small groups to ensure that our students receive the best possible support throughout their time at the Swiss Fashion Academy, which guarantees their success.

Zurich Fashion School – Job Description: Fashion Designer

Imagine that exciting moment when the models are about to present your first collection, which you designed as a fashion designer. It will still be a little while before that happens. Nevertheless, with our fashion design course and our fashion designer training program, we want to give you a quick start in the fashion design profession. Studying fashion—and specifically our fashion design training program—is anything but dry theory, because in our program, you can let your imagination run wild.

Learn how to professionally design collections for the fashion industry

You'll set trends yourself and stay about two years ahead of the (fashion) curve. You'll skillfully combine your sense of aesthetics with business considerations such as production, costs, distribution, and quality control—and in doing so, become a successful fashion designer.

Study fashion and put your practical skills to work—you can do just that in our fashion design training program

Are you the kind of person who, at the sight of a sewing machine, just wants to get creative right away and start making clothes and accessories? But do you still lack the necessary skills for patternmaking, sewing, and draping? Then we have the right course for you here at the Swiss Fashion Academy. After completing the fashion program, you'll be able to work completely independently. You'll design patterns, create the pieces customers want, and can also work in quality control.

With the certificate as a “Fashion Tailoring Specialist,” you’ll also demonstrate your knowledge of cost estimation, design, cost accounting, and production.

If you want to specialize entirely in tailoring and sewing and graduate with the title of Pilotista, the Swiss Fashion Academy offers the perfect program for you with its specialized course in tailoring and sewing.

Stand out with a personal stylist training program—because clothes make the man

Studying fashion also has a lot to do with self-expression and psychology. Whether in your personal or professional life, your presence plays a major role. Which fashion styles suit which body types? A stylish appearance is a skill that must be learned. At our fashion school, our stylist training program will familiarize you with different body types. You'll learn how to harmoniously combine colors, fabrics, and collections, and you'll gain the knowledge needed to help others choose the right clothing.

These make the client appear attractive, appropriate, and authentic.

Which course at the Swiss Fashion Academy you choose depends on your individual talents. In any case, you're guaranteed a high-quality education.

If you want to become a fashion designer and would like to pursue a fashion design program, for example, then the Swiss Fashion Academy is the perfect place for you! We look forward to welcoming you soon to the Fashion School Zurich. Just get in touch with us now—no obligation!
